COLLEGE $1,000,000 DRIVE

THE ORGANIZATION FOR DRIVE IS ABOUT PERFECTED.

Part of Drive for Erection of Buildings and Equipment—Balance for Additional Endowment Needed.

Governor Wm. C. Sproul, Provost Edgar Fahs Smith, of the University of Pennsylvania, Dimmer Beeber, of Philadelphia, F. B. Wickersham, of Steelton, Dr. F. H. Knuber, president of the United Lutheran Church, and a number of other men prominent in all walks of life and from many different sections have accepted appointment on the endorsement committee for the million dollar campaign for the endowment and expansion of Gettysburg College.

The goal of the drive is an additional endowment of $600,000, and $400,000 for expansion which will result in the erection of another dormitory to house 125 additional students, a new science and engineering building, a new gymnasium, and a library building. It is the plan to enlarge the institution to the point where it will have a faculty of fifty, a student body of 500 in the college and 125 in the academy.

Principal headquarters have been opened in Gettysburg. In Baltimore and Harrisburg. Other headquarters have been established and a campaign of organization has resulted in securing co-operation of hundreds of prominent alumni and friends of the college who have enlisted in the work. From these headquarters are being sent hundreds of thousands of pieces of literature to acquaint people generally with the present condition of the college and its future needs. This will be followed later by an intensive campaign of a week or ten days for subscriptions. These dates will be announced later. The Lutheran Church, from which Gettysburg College draws the greater measure of its support, has promised, through its ministers, the most hearty co-operation and a campaign in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and other nearby States among a membership of more than one hundred and fifty thousand is being carried on with a thorough system which is expected to yield exceptional results.

Mass meetings of alumni and friends of the college are scheduled for all the Gettysburg centers during the next few weeks. Lutheran synods are lending their aid. Alumni clubs are helping with the plans for the final drive and it is generally predicted that the goal has not been set too high. Both large and small contributions are being sought.

Among the facts brought to the attention of those from whom the college expects to receive its support in this campaign are the distinction it possesses of being the oldest Lutheran college on Western Hemisphere, having been built in 1832, and the rating given to it by the United States Bureau of Education and the New York State Board of Regents as a college of the highest grade.

The organization is in the hands of a reputable concern which has had years of experience in such campaign work and with a reputation of having put over drives of many millions of dollars. The organization is practically complete under the experts in charge. The successful work of the four experts, J. Fitch Perkins, Earl H. Carr, Richard McKee, and C. T. Bowen, during the past campaigns in which they have been engaged is due to their efficient and thorough methods. Especially, too, because they do no campaigning on a percentage basis. When a person gives to the fund, the entire amount goes to the credit of the campaign.

The organization will cover nine districts: East Pennsylvania and West Pennsylvania, Central Pennsylvania, Susquehanna, Allegheny, Pittsburgh S. S., Maryland, West Virginia, and New York Synods. Each Synod is under the direction of a chairman and sub-chairmen and committees. Each works within its field and also with the general campaign committee of one hundred five members of which Dr. Granville is chairman. This central committee has direct supervision over the campaign and directs the work through sub-organization committees in the nine districts. Each of these nine districts has been organized consisting of a chairman and central committee. The men who are chairmen in the nine districts are as follows: East Pennsylvania, John Dapp; West Pennsylvania, Dr. Weaver; New York, William Gies; Pittsburgh, Robbin B. Wolf, Esq.; West Virginia, Rev. Leslie K. Young; Allegheny, Marion J. Kline; Central Pennsylvania, Dr. M. S. Cressman; Susquehanna, Dr. John Wagner; Maryland, Martin H. Buchler.

He has assumed his new duties and will have entire charge of the theatre. Mr. McSherry's position with the railroad will be filled by Monroe Weiser who has been baggage master for several years. Samuel Fissel of the freight office has been made baggage master.

WATER COMPANY RATES

MEET WITH OPPOSITION OF TOWN PEOPLE.

Some of the Town Talk Being Handed from Neighbor to Neighbor.

The Gettysburg Water Company is finding very many citizens who are ready to oppose their proposed increase of water rates. A lot of talk has been flowing for the past week over the proposed raise. There are those who say the Water Company was not a unit when raise was first proposed. That there were those who were in favor of a slight raise to cover any expected loss. Then it is said there was a sentiment for a moderate raise. But the extreme view is said to have prevailed for a big raise which would stand paring by the Public Service Commission. After their views were thrashed out, the latter view prevailed according to the talk.

The inopportune moment of a raise has been the occasion of much of the talk in opposition. Leases have largely been signed with tenants, so that the whole burden of a raise for the first of the year would fall on landlords. Then without excuse or explanation of the reasons for a raise there are many who believe the natural increase of business this year would have given a nice raise in income. Forty houses are proposed by the Housing Company. Many flats have been made in buildings and with other buildings contemplated and the new plants going into operation, a natural increase in income of from $1000 to $2000 was to be expected.

It has been variously estimated that an average increase of domestic rates of 88 will apply to about 800 users, giving the Company an increase of over $6000 of income. The commercial and metre increase would give more and the increase asked from borough would yield annually $850 more. It is estimated that the Water Company is asking for as much as $8000 to $10,000 of an increase. The capital stock of the Water Company is $105,000. It usually pays 8 per cent. on par value of stock. The dividend last year was 6 per cent.—a decrease of 2 per cent. or in round figures $2000, yet according to estimates four or five times that amount without counting for an increase of business from new houses and business would be provided by the new rates.

The Chamber of Commerce has not been able to see the reason of the raise as proposed and at a meeting last Friday evening appointed a committee composed of Capt. Calvin Gilbert, C. A. Blocher, John Brehm, W. F. Gilliland and John D. Lippy to employ counsel to contest the proposed increase. The town is being canvassed for the sinews of a contest and according to reports if this big raise was left to a vote of the people, it would be defeated by about the recent vote in favor of paved streets, 822 to 28.

It is said a number of the industrial plants of the town will join in the contest. The Town Council has instructed the borough attorney to oppose the raise. The W. M. R. R. is quoted as opposing raise. The Water Company end does not look as the popular one.

Ugly Fire Put Out

An ugly fire broke out in the pool room of David D. Kendeheart in the building of Mrs. Bonesky on Chambersburg street shortly after midnight on Wednesday night. It looked threatening to the building and other property at the start but the good work of the Fire Company soon had it under control, but not before the store and pool room had been gutted and roasted. The origin of the fire is said to be defective wiring and there is no question that the fire started in the wall where electric wiring was located. Mr. Kendeheart's loss is three billiard tables, racks and other equipment of pool room and store and his loss is estimated at $1800 and loss to the building may be $10000 or more.

Suggestion for Great Picture

The "New York Times" last Sunday stated: It was from Elsie Singmaster's book, "Gettysburg," that Miss Violet Oakley got the suggestion for one of the mural paintings of the Pennsylvania State Capitol at Harrisburg that she has just completed representing President Lincoln, delivering his Gettysburg Address. It shows a young widow with her children standing in the foreground listening to Lincoln's speech and realizing for the first time the great significance of her sacrifice.

New Novel by Elsie Singmaster

Houghton, Mifflin Company, of Boston, in announcing the publication last week of Basil Everman by Elsie Singmaster, of Gettysburg, says:

"After ten years of steadily ripening work, Miss Singmaster has written a novel that will take its place in the front rank of American fiction."

"Basil Everman" takes its name from a character who never once appears in person, but who dominates the entire story. It is in her presentation of this character and of the shadow he casts across the sunny landscape of the little college town in which the scene is laid, that Miss Singmaster achieves her greatest success.

Readers who are looking for a tale of contemporary life, as fresh, authentic, and profoundly moving as the best of the novels that are now coming to us from England, will find it in this book."

The little college town is easily recognizable as Gettysburg, though there is enough authors license now and then to make one wonder whether he is where he thought he was.

The People in the story are however the creation of the writer, they never lived here, but they are good human types and could live any place and for that reason there will be those who will do some guessing about them. Many of the characters are finely drawn specimens, the picturesque music teacher being one of the cleverest in book. We confess that we would have preferred if enough had been told to allow us to believe that Dr. Green lied and that there was reason enough for a lifetime hysteria of the wife of the college president. But the reader must read to understand and this book will give much pleasure and profit to the many friends of the author who are watching the development of her ripening work. Price of book $1.90 on sale in town or from publisher.

WILSON'S FIGHT FOR TREATY.

President Wilson on Monday restated his position on Article X reservation in language the people can understand and will approve, among others he said.

"For myself, I feel that I could not look the soldiers of our gallant armies in the face again if I did not do everything in my power to remove every obstacle that lies in the way of the adoption of this particular article.

"Any reservation which seeks to deprive the League of Nations of the force of Article X cuts at the very heart and life of the covenant itself. Article X * * * must be recognized or there is no secure basis for the peace which the whole world so lovingly desires and so desperately needs.

"If we were to reject Article X or so to weaken it as to take its full force out of it, it would mark us as desiring to return to the old world of jealous rivalry and misunderstandings from which our gallant soldiers have rescued us.

"Every imperialistic influence in Europe was hostile to the embodiment of Article X in the covenant of the League of Nations and its defeat now would mark the complete consummation of their efforts to nullify the treaty.

"I hold the doctrine of Article X to be the essence of Americanism. We cannot repudiate it or weaken it without at the same time repudiating our own principles.

"The imperialist wants no League of Nations, but if, in response to the universal cry of the masses everywhere, there is to be one, he is interested to secure one suited to his own purposes, one that will permit him to continue the historic game of pawns and peoples—the juggling of provinces, the old balances of power, and the inevitable wars attendant upon these things. The reservation proposed would perpetuate the old order.

"The enemies of a League of Nations have by every true instinct centered their efforts against Article X, for it is undoubtedly the foundation of the whole structure. It is the bulwark, and the only bulwark of the rising democracy of the world against the forces of imperialism and reaction.

"I hear of reservationists and mild reservationists, but I cannot understand the difference between a nullifier and a mild nullifier.

"Our responsibility as a nation in this turning point of history is an overwhelming one, and if I had the opportunity I would beg every one concerned to consider the matter in the light of what it is possible to accomplish for humanity rather than in the light of special national interests."

Are there "Big Profits" in the Telephone Business?

FOR twenty years the operations of The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania have never afforded the owners of the property more than a reasonable return on a good, sound, conservative investment.

This is not a Company that has been marked by frenzied finance. On the contrary, there is not a drop of so-called water in our capitalization.

It has created no great fortunes.

Because the Company is big, many people think it has made "all sorts of money" and is still making it.

The fact is—as the published records show—that fancy dividends have always given way to good plant maintenance, adequate reserves against depreciation and common-sense stability of the business.

That's what good service depends on!

At the present time those essential elements are facing serious danger. There are not revenues enough to meet our necessities. And unless adequate rates are forthcoming, and quickly, the outcome is obvious—a service dangerously impaired and a property which, because of the uncertainty of continued returns, will not attract new capital for improvements and extensions.

THE MAN WHO SUSPECTS that he has kidney trouble and neglects to take measures promptly for his relief is taking a dangerously unwise risk. If the kidneys are not properly performing their function of purifying the blood stream, waste products and poisonous acids remain in the system and cause nervousness, rheumatic pains, backache, languidness, sore muscles, swollen joints, stiffness, puffiness under eyes and other weakening symptoms.

Why Colds Are Dangerous.

You are often told to "beware of a cold," but why? We'll tell you: Every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality and paves the way for the more serious diseases. People who contract pneumonia first take cold. The longer a cold hangs on, the greater the danger, especially from the germ diseases, as a cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs of consumption, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. The quicker you get rid of your cold the less the danger of contracting one of these diseases. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a great reputation as a cure for colds and can be depended upon. It is pleasant to take. People's Drug Store.

SAVED FROM HAREM

Armenian Girls Rescued from Turkey Being Taken to Near East Relief Home.

The three pretty Armenian girls in the auto are taking a real "joy ride," joyful having another meaning from that generally associated with auto riding here. They have been rescued from the harem of a Turk after four years of shameful servitude and are being taken to one of the Near East Relief rescue homes. No wonder they are smiling for the first time since their captivity. The Near East Relief is caring for many thousands of these girls until they can find their relatives. Also it is working to save 250,000 orphans and over a million adults from starvation this winter. That is why it is making a nation wide appeal for funds to carry on its noble work.

"Before and After" in the Near East

From misery to comfort and self-respect in five days' time, simply through the magic of an American ten dollar bill is a transformation that is being wrought daily in Western Asia by the Near East Relief of 1 Madison Avenue, New York City. The group of five Armenian children shown in two pictures here have reason to bless the American donor of that ten dollar bill. With this money, the expert workers of Near East Relief in Armenia were able to rid the poor children of their loathsome rags and to clothe them with new garments of alaba cloth, woven in a Near East Relief Industrial plant and sewed into garments by the mother of the children. The mother was also paid a small fee for her services in making the garments.

This was a lucky family. There are thousands of others not so lucky in the Near East, simply because of a lack of other ten dollar bills. Near East Relief is asking the American people to contribute funds to save the starving in the Bible lands. It is estimated that over 1,250,000 adults are in desperate need, and 250,000 children are orphans and must be cared for. For the sum of $180 a year Near East Relief can not only feed and clothe and shelter an orphan child, but can also give a course in education towards ultimate self-support and independence. Many of these orphans are being "adopted" by Americans, who are providing funds for the support of one or more over a given period.

PATRIOTS' CREED TO CURE ECONOMIC ILLS

I believe in the United States of America.
My opportunity and hope depend upon her future.
I believe that her stability and progress rest upon the thrift and industry of her people.
Therefore I will work hard and live simply.
I will spend less than I earn.
I will use my earnings with care.
I will save consistently.
I will invest thoughtfully.
To increase the financial strength of my country and myself I will buy government securities.
I will hold above barter the obligations my country thus incurs.
I will do these things to insure the greatness of America's future.

Face the New Year confidently and cheerfully, with a firm resolution that you will save each day, each week, and each month to the end that you this time next year you will have money. Take advantage of what your government offers you: buy its securities, such as Thrift and War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates. Do this, and hang on to your Liberty Bonds and you will have a happy New Year.

To save is imperative. Some people are born thrifty, some achieve thrift, but most of us have thrift thrust upon us by high prices and restricted incomes. To all the budget is the universal help, and as a safe investment for small savings, Thrift and War Savings Stamps should be the first consideration after the necessities.

Extravagance robs character, train youth away from it. On the other hand, the habit of saving money, while it stiffens the will, also brightens the energies. If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save—Theodore Roosevelt.

Begin right today. Buy Thrift or a War Savings Stamp and keep up the habit regularly.

Perfumed Epistles

By R. RAY BAKER

Big Bruce Forrester was not a woman hater. He was not interested, that was all.

While the rest of the surveying crowd that was measuring the Low Ridge range for the coming of the railroad spent its spare time in receiving perfumed mail and answering it Big Bruce sought solace in nicotine in the seclusion of his bunk or roamed the wilds of Wilderness woods and communed with nature.

"Go to it, boys," was his advice. "Some day you'll learn better. Women are all right as parlor decorations and to consume surplus cash in candy and clothes, but as for me—well, I'm going to buy myself a farm some day, where I can have horses, dogs and cows and chickens. They're of some use in the world, and they don't go back on you when you're down and out."

Naturally, the others resented these outbursts. They defended the fair sex valiantly, and by sheer numbers forced Big Bruce to desist from his oral attacks.

"All right, I'll keep still in the future," he growled; "but you can't prevent a fellow thinking; and while you're fooling your time away with pens and ink you can let your minds dwell on the fact that I consider you're all confounded idiots."

Sunday was a day of rest in the woods as well as the places where civilization reigned, and also it was a day when a great deal of letter writing was accomplished in "Lover's Lodge," which Big Bruce sarcastically christened the shanty where the surveyors were making their headquarters.

On one of these Sundays Bruce set out on a hike which he called a "relief expedition."

"I'm going to get relief from the perfumed air of this shack," he announced as he took an old walking stick he had carved from a tree branch, a package of sandwiches and a sanitary cup. "Here's hoping you all get married and settle down to blissful contentment—no excitement, no pleasure, no nothing," and he strode disdainfully from the shack into the woods.

It was not a case of envy with Big Bruce. He could have been admired by many girls had he chosen, for he was a good, healthy, handsome specimen who looked well either in hall-room or backwoods. However, Big Bruce had not met the right sort of women.

His mother died when he was a toddler, and when he grew up his father's financial standing threw him in with a lot of society buds who had no mission in life other than to look beautiful, sip iced drinks and play bridge. No women held no interest for him. They were to him, as he had said, mere ornaments or playthings and not to be given consideration in a serious, busy world.

Big Bruce drew his lungs full of pure air as he swung along the ridge, heading for Lake Crescent, where he knew a flat-bottomed rowboat was drawn up on shore. It was well along in summer and vegetation was in full bloom, with birds chirping in the trees and insects buzzing merrily—and some of them stinging just as merrily.

Bruce expelled clouds of pungent tobacco smoke, drawn from a venerable pipe, and hummed a tune. He was enjoying himself immensely.

Getting into the rowboat, he propelled it across the lake, which was about two miles wide and five miles long. A stiff breeze ruffled the water into choppy waves, but Big Bruce's strong arms drove the scow through them without noticing the resistance. Arriving on the other side he drew the craft up on shore and continued his wanderings.

Suddenly, while walking along enjoying the solitude of the woods and thinking of his foolish friends back in "Lovers' Lodge," he felt a sharp, piercing pain in his right side. At the same instant the report of a rifle echoed through the forest. Big Bruce tumbled in a heap on the ground and almost lost consciousness.

For moments that seemed like hours the young man lay there helpless, the pain growing more intense all the while. With an effort he reached his left hand to the wound and withdrew it covered with blood. He felt nauseated and black dots swam before his eyes.

Realizing it would not do to lie there and allow his strength to ebb, he forced himself to crawl along the path on which he had been walking. It seemed that he had crawled at least three miles, stopping frequently to regain strength, when he came into a clearing, in which some one was cooking over a fire.

With the knowledge that help was at hand, Big Bruce drifted into unconsciousness. When his eyes opened some time later, he looked up into a pair of black eyes which were owned by a girl of about twenty, who was garbed in well-fitting buckskin clothes, with a short skirt, leggings and a wide-brimmed hat.

"I've got your wound fixed up," she told him. "Some fool man has been hunting out of season and got the wrong kind of game. If I had fired that shot it would have hit what it was aimed at."

She snorted in disgust. An examination with his hands showed Bruce that his shirt had been cut away around the wound and a bandage put in place. The bandage was wet, but he ascertained that it was with water instead of blood.

"It's not serious—if I hurry you home," she told him, in business-like tones. "If you'll try to walk, and lean on me all you want to, we can make it to the canoe."

It was not a great distance, and she, in spite of the pain and his weakened condition, which became more pronounced when he essayed to walk, Bruce was almost sorry when they arrived at the shore and she helped him into the canoe.

It was growing dusk, but Big Bruce could see that there were white caps on the lake. He doubted the girl's ability to paddle through the savage waves, but he kept his own counsel.

Before pushing the craft into the water she filled his pipe for him, placed the stem between his teeth and lit it. He was so amazed by this act of thoughtfulness that he came near forgetting to draw on the pipe.

Soon they were tossing on the lake. Big Bruce was somewhat apprehensive, but he knew he was powerless to help the girl who was seated in the stern paddling vigorously to keep the nose of the boat headed into the ridges of foam. If she faltered and allowed the oncoming waves to turn the canoe and sweep against its side there was no telling what would result.

However, she worked like a trojan, never uttering a word, and despite the fact that it was now so dark the shore on either side was blotted out, she seemed confident of being able to reach her destination, whatever it might be.

At last they were landed, and the girl surprised Bruce by dragging the canoe clear of the water with him in it, almost tipping him out.

"There," she breathed, rather heavily. "Now for the car."

She left him, and presently a flood of light from the spotlight of an auto surrounded him. Again she aided him to walk, and presently he was reclining in the tonneau of the car speeding over the road.

Soon they came to a branch road, which they followed for a short distance, stopping finally in front of a comfortable looking cottage, in which cheery lights were burning.

Half an hour later Bruce was in bed, a fresh bandage over the wound, the girl's brother having come to help look after the patient.

"Father will be back soon," the girl told him. "He's a doctor, and he'll fix you up right; but I know you'll have to stay here three weeks. It's lucky we didn't go back to the city yesterday as we had planned."

Three weeks later Big Bruce was back in "Lovers' Lodge," practically recovered from his wound.

One day one of the boys came tearing into the shack with a packet of mail in one hand and a lone letter in the other.

"Help! help!" he cried, in mock distress. "Here's a letter for Mr. Bruce Forrester—and it's pink and got perfume on it."

Bruce took the letter, his face blazing, and retired to his bunk. The others gathered round and looked on in open-mouthed astonishment while he read to himself smiling the while.

Presently he finished perusing the missive and when he looked up he apparently noticed for the first time that he had an audience.

"What's the matter with you boys?" he snorted. "Can't a fellow fall in love if he wants to? Say, where in thunder's some ink, paper and pen?"

A Frightful Peril.
When the railway was first built in Germany, it was considered as a serious menace to health. In the archives of the Nuremberg railway, which was the first line constructed in Germany, a protest against railways has been found, drawn up by the royal college of Bavarian doctors. It declares:

"Travel in carriage drawn by locomotives ought to be forbidden in the interest of public health. The rapid movement cannot fail to produce among the passengers the mental affection known as delirium furiosum. Even if travelers are willing to incur the risk, the government should at least protect the public. A single glance at a locomotive passing rapidly is sufficient to cause cerebral derangement. Consequently, it is absolutely necessary to build a fence, ten feet high, on each side of the railway." "Delirium furiosum" holds possession of not a few automobilists nowadays.

Smile Is Better Than Frown.
It has been proved that anger and violent emotion cause for the time being a poisonous condition of the blood which is injurious. It must be equally true that facing the passing hour with a mouth turned up at the corners and a mind alert for the best that the day offers is beneficial. This is a pretty decent old world after all, if we but treat it right. And surely if we face our obligations and our work, not with frowns but with gladness, it will give us a more kindly greeting and a helping hand in return.—From the Three Partners.

You Saw These Knockabout Suits and Polo Coats in Vogue

Suit 4010 has consistently chosen Scotch Tweed mixtures to express the simple lines of this Knockabout suit which the tailored lady is wearing. A contrasting color to face collar and cuffs and a tiny piping of the same color through the belt add a touch of smartness.

Suit 4030 (on the lady at the left) is of Irish Homespun, and assumes a decidedly mannish air through the cut of its collar, cuffs and pockets. And by means of two buttons on each side of the skirt it combines straightness of line with walking comfort.

Wooltex
Tailor-mades

Designed and Tailored by
The H. Black Co.

It's just a bit of white satin embroidered in gold and black. But, neatly fastened inside the collar of your tailormade, it means that you'll wear the coat or suit with all the pride we take in signing it! Remember, no matter how much it "looks like" a Wooltex Tailormade, it just can't be without that Wooltex signature shown above!

"Meadowbrook." This is another smart Polo Coat. Large, square pockets, convertible collar with self stitching and a nice broad belt make it unusual. The shoulders are snug, the back straight with stitched seam down the centre. It is open in back from about six inches below the waist to the hem. In the same colors as the "Pinchurst."

"Pinchurst." It's of French Blue Angora Polo, this little sports coat. The Gray Angora Tuxedo facing conceals two little pockets, and those sharp little points over the hips are extremely smart. The cuff is "linked," the shoulders snug, and the back full. It comes in Squirrel, French Blue and Tan—the Tuxedo collar is of self or contrasting Angora.
